“All children have the right to read quality books”
About Us

Read with Me is a project designed and implemented by the Institute for Research on the History of Children’s Literature (IRHCL), to promote reading for/with disadvantaged children who are generally at risk. “The Institute for Research on the History of Children’s Literature” (IRHCL) (koodaki.org/en) is a non-governmental/ non-profit organization founded in 2000 to conduct research on the history of children’s literature. A major achievement of the Institute is the publication of 10 volumes of the history of children’s literature in Iran.

After spending years on research, the institute has established a reading promotion website (ketabak.org) as a virtual base, to support families, teachers, tutors and librarians by hundreds of essays in the field of children’s literature, reading promotion, introducing successful reading promotion projects around the world, and introducing quality books.

Reaching out to disadvantaged children has been a major concern of the Institute, in particular, those who are deprived of cultural activities, especially books and reading.

In 2010, the Institute developed a new project called Read with Me. The implementation of the Read with Me Project is the Institute’s action to bring its motto into practice: "All children have the right to read quality books."
Introduction

✓ Read with Me at one glance!
✓ What makes Read with Me so URGENT?
✓ Missions
✓ History and achievements
Read with Me at one glance!

Read with Me is a project for literacy acquisition through literature and reading promotion for deprived children and children in crisis.

The Read with Me project has been developed based on vast research for near twenty years on children’s literature and creative education in the Institute for Research on the History of Children’s Literature in Iran. The project has been implemented for more than ten years in wide areas of Iran (mostly deprived parts of the country), among children at risk, refugee children from Afghanistan, Pakistan immigrant families, and also in some Farsi speaking regions of Afghanistan. Now, the project can offer a comprehensive and effective program to improve literacy skills and promote reading in hard or even impossible situations, which is expandable, flexible and sustainable.
The project has realistic and simple principles. So, it is easily adapted and implemented by local organizations or individuals. Due to its flexibility, it has achieved various situation-compatible implementation methods and hence it has covered diverse groups of children: children in schools in deprived areas, out-of-school children, patient children, working/street children, children in nurseries, and even children of workers’ families in a factory.

Constant supervision and evaluation of the project, along with establishing local child-centered libraries near schools and small school libraries or shelf libraries inside the classrooms, ensure the sustainability of the project.

Read with Me Motto:
“All Children have the right to read quality books!”
What makes Read with Me so URGENT?

Iran’s formal education system in recent forty years has not been successful in using creative methods in teaching the literacy skills effectively. Considering the economic problems in recent years in Iran, each year, more and more children miss the opportunity to attend schools. And as a result of this inefficiency, children in troubled families, cannot gain the skills they need to get them out of the cycle of poverty and deficiency.

Reading literature with the aim of intellectual, emotional and social development of children is not an integral part of the Iranian education system. This problem is bolder in deprived communities, where children live in poverty; have to work and often their rights are violated.
There are thousands of children working in Tehran and other big cities of Iran. They work in small workshops or they are seen in all neighborhoods digging into garbage bins for recyclables or selling chewing gum or flowers at the intersections.

A part of them are members of undocumented Afghan families who live in Iran illegally, which means that they are barred from attending schools. Some are Iranians whose parents have left their rural homes to try and earn a living in a big city.

Also, many children in remote areas of Iran live in cultural poverty and deprivation and they are excluded from the least opportunities to grow their capabilities.

Based on this reality, the Institute has developed the project Read with Me aiming to encourage deprived children and young adults to read, to improve their basic literacy and comprehension and help them to improve critical thinking and creative problem-solving skills.
Missions

- Promote the culture of books and reading and develop life-long interest in reading and literature in deprived areas, at home, school, and in the community by supplying quality books for children and their families, caregivers, teachers and librarians;
- Empower oppressed and neglected women in deprived areas, who are mostly not well educated and aware of their abilities, to get positive attitudes towards themselves: at home, school and community to change their children’s lives through literacy activities (Here you can find about women involved in the Read with Me project);
- Promote the concept of emergent literacy in the society by publishing books and guidelines, holding workshops for parents, kindergarten, preschool and school teachers, and librarians
- Expand children and young adults' libraries in deprived areas as rich literacy and children’s rights compatible environments;
- Improve basic literacy and language skills among bilingual children;
- Expand Living values and skills and environmental values through book reading.
History and achievements

As a pilot study, Read with Me was successfully implemented in the MahmoudAbad Children’s House, a marginal area of southeast Tehran, close to brick kilns and small industries where is mostly occupied by workers’ families. Since, the project has been expanded to many rural and urban areas in Iran.

Over the last decade, focused on children at risk and looking for sustainable solutions to address the problems they face, Read with Me, based on its experiences in different communities believes: women’s contributions, as mothers, caretakers, librarians and teachers, have been pivotal in improving the lives of children.

The project has been implemented mostly by supports of women: Read with Me trainers, teachers, librarians, volunteers and mothers. By their cooperation, the project has so far made remarkable progress:

- It has been implemented in 23 provinces of Iran, in schools, libraries and local communities;
It has covered more than 300,000 at risk and underserved children;

It has trained near 8,000 teachers, librarians, and volunteers;

Hundreds of mothers with their babies and toddlers have participated in Read with Me workshops in marginal neighborhoods of large cities;

Almost 100 libraries have been set up with rich literacy environments, defending children’s rights especially the right to read and learn;

Many girls in small villages without a chance to study after the elementary school, have been working as librarians in their village libraries;

It has worked in vast various fields: schools, nurseries, hospitals, factories, in natural and social crisis, in Iran or Afghanistan, for newborn children to young adults.
2

Project's Expansion

✓ Fields of Activities
Fields of Activities

Now, the Read with Me project is working in the following areas:

- Educational centers in deprived areas

- Children in crisis:
  - Working/ Street children in marginal neighborhoods
  - Nurseries / Orphanages
  - Hospitals
  - Earthquake/ flood affected areas

- Child-centered libraries:
  - Local libraries
  - School/ Classroom libraries
  - Small rural libraries and training adolescent librarians

- Reading with babies and toddlers program

- Reading in Families

- One Promoter, One Book Package Campaign
Read with Me project is implemented in the schools and educational centers of many parts of Iran, mostly in deprived provinces of the country such as South Khorasan, Sistan and Baluchestan, Lorestan, Khouzestan as well as some schools in Afghanistan.

Here, you can find a brief explanation of the project some example regions. You can find the full reports and latest news of the project all over Iran, on our website.
South Khorasan

- In 2012 Read with Me was implemented in 26 villages of South Khorasan province, with the financial support of IBBY/Sharjah Fund and the Yavari Cultural Society. 800 preschool children in 26 preschools participated in this project. The villages are located in remote areas close to Iran/Afghanistan border. In 2014, three other districts in South Khorasan province requested an extension of the project to 5 regions, including overall 2400 of preschoolers and children in first grade of elementary school. In 2015, another district joined the project.

Since 2012 in these 6 regions, about 7000 of 5-12 year-old children in preschools and schools have benefited the quality books provided by the project.

South Khorasan is another successful experience of the Read with Me project, where, by the efforts of compassionate and creative teachers, vast long-lasting effects on children's learning process have been observed, especially among the children in preschools.

In order to expand and sustain the program in the region, a number of elite South Khorasan teachers are selected as Read with Me ambassadors and after receiving special training, now they can promote the project and train their colleagues in the region.
Kerman

✓ Read with Me began its work in Kerman province in 2012, after the Bam earthquake and covered about 100 children after the crisis.

Since 2015, Read with Me is implemented in a number of schools in Kerman and until now many schools in urban and rural areas of Sirjan, Jiroft, Kahnooj and Sarcheshmeh have been covered by the project. As of 2020, more than 9000 children have benefited from the project.

Sirjan’s child-centered library works as a base for reading promotion in the area and together with some small rural child-centered libraries, they guarantee the project’s sustainability in the region.

Teachers and trained ambassadors can borrow books from the library and hold reading aloud sessions in their classes.

Teachers make educational tools based on what they have learned in Read with Me workshops, in relation to “basic literacy improvement” packages.
Read with Me has focused on basic literacy and reading and writing skills improvement of children especially bilingual children in this deprived province through literature and book reading. The project started its activities in this province in three centers in 2015 and by 2016, most parts of the province such as Zahedan, Zabol, Iranshahr, Saravan, Konarak and Sarbaz have been covered by the project.

The experts have evaluated the effects of the method on basic literacy improvement during this period "amazing". They believe that the project has improved reading and writing skills, expanded the vocabulary knowledge along with bringing joy and self-confidence to bilingual and nomadic students in the region.

After years of training, Read with Me ambassadors of this province can pass on the project’s standards, promote reading and improve literacy foundation in their region.
Lorestan

Since 2014, the children of deprived areas of Kuhdasht, a city of Lorestan Province in Iran, have joined this project.

In 2016, the project was spread into nomadic schools in the area and it was well received by teachers and tutors.

The Read with Me program is continued by establishing a child-centered library in Khorramabad, as a base for nomadic and rural teachers.

In 2018, Sepiddasht, another Nomadic region in Lorestan province joined the Read with Me project with about 500 children and 30 teachers.

In 2020, after the floods in Lorestan province, a number of deprived kindergartens in Pol-e Dokhtar, Mamulan, Dorud and KhoramAbad were also covered by the project.
Afghanistan

- The Read with Me project has spread out to regions beyond the borders of Iran in order to bring its motto into practice: “All children have the right to read quality books”. The project is implemented in Mazar-e-Sharif, Afghanistan and regions around the city, since 2016, in cooperation with "Future for Afghanistan Children" Organization, aiming children in preschool and first and second grade of elementary school. This project covers more than 1000 children, 48 teachers, and tutors in 5 schools.

In summer 2019, Read with Me workshops were held in Kabul in collaboration with Aschiana Foundation. Participants from 10 organizations working with children at risk, took part in these workshops spreading the project in vaster areas such as Panjshir Valley.

In 2020, Parande Library in Panjshir joined the Read with Me project. Read with Me has sent quality books and library resources to the library. Children’s literature and Read-aloud workshops will also be held for its librarians.

You can read the library’s opening report on this link.
Children in crisis
Working/ Street children in marginal neighborhoods

Read with Me is implemented in multiple Centers/ Schools & preschools for working/street children in marginal neighborhoods around Tehran, Isfahan, Yazd and Sarawan.

More than ten centers in underserved regions of Tehran are covered by Read with Me where many children at risk can develop resilience and learn living values by seeing the world through literature and quality books. Here, you can see four examples of these centers.

The Supportive Education Center of MahmoudAbad, in a village in southeast of Tehran, receives children of families who mostly work in brick kilns in this village. In this center, preschoolers benefit creative education, reading aloud sessions and artistic activities, where no other preschools are available and parents cannot afford any training before school. The center has been able to provide free education and Emergent Literacy skills improvement for children in the neighborhood.

The center’s library provides children and adolescents with quality books, and librarians and tutors of this center go to schools or even to children in brick kilns with book bags and read books for them.

The “Reading with Babies and Toddlers” program is also implemented in this center for mothers with babies from 0 to 3 years old.

Avay-e-Mandegar Empowerment Center is located in Darvazeh-Ghar neighborhood in the middle of Tehran City. This neighborhood faces many problems such as addiction, poverty and unemployment. The center is established to help single mothers, girls and women in female-headed households to become literate and skillful, empowering them with social and job skills.

Read with Me started collaborating with this center since 2015 and in addition of establishing a child-centered library, the “Basic Literacy Improvement through Literature” program has been implemented for children 3-6 years old. Mothers working in this center, or other mothers living in the neighborhood, with children 0-3 years old, also attend the “Reading with babies and toddlers” program. Reading aloud sessions are also held for women and mothers working in the center, helping them to get acquainted with literature and books.

Out-of-School Children

Giving the opportunity to gain a basic education through literature to school-aged children out of school, is one of the Read with Me goals. In 2018, a group of children in Jahad-abad (Sarawan, Sistan and Baluchestan province) and another group in MalekShahr (Isfahan province) joined the project, learning literacy by “Read with Me Literacy improvement packages”. These children are mostly out of school because of having no birth certificate.

Since 2019, children in Kousha Center, in Shirabad, a marginalized district in Zahedan, have been provided with quality education through the Basic Literacy improvement approach by the Read with Me project. You can read a detailed report of the project on this link.
In 2013, the Institute’s experts identified some of the shortcomings and basic needs of children living in Ameneh Nursery in enhancing their listening, speaking and emotional skills and suggested the implementation of "Learning Sounds" and "Learning Alphabet" packages in this center. This nursery is for zero to seven-year-old orphan and neglected children. A Read with Me trainer attends weekly at this center and after some years, this expert has been able to make an incredible change in the language, social and emotional development of the children. Now the child-centered library of this nursery has become a popular place for children.

Since October 2015, “Reading with babies and toddlers” program has been officially established in the infant’s section of this nursery. During this period, amazing effects of reading and talking with newborns, have astonished the staff and nursing experts, who initially considered reading books with newborns as vain and has made them a supporter of this program.

After the successful reading experience with infants, "Hazrat Roghaieh" and "Torkamani" nurseries, which are other nursery care centers in Tehran, joined the project.
Hospitals

• Mahak Hospital for children with cancer from disadvantaged families is a unique location where some 400 children & young adults, ages 4 to 16, participated in the project while receiving treatment in the hospital. Volunteers in the hospital were trained to read with children. The project started in 2013 and is active to date.

• Ali Asghar Hospital for Thalassemia children, located in Sistan and Baluchestan province, one of the most deprived areas in Iran, where some 300 children and young adults, ages 3 to 16 have joined the project. The project started in 2014.

• Since 2016, reading aloud sessions are held for children with cancer in Tabriz by the supports of the Society to Support Children with Cancer in Tabriz (Taskin)

• Since summer 2019, some Read with Me volunteers read aloud books for hospitalized children in Tehran.
Children after Natural Disasters

Read with Me helps children in special situations like natural and social catastrophic events in which children need Bibliotherapy and appropriate books. Read with Me project has so far covered children in East Azarbaijan, Bam, Kermanshah, Khouzestan, and Lorestan after earthquakes and floods.

As the first actions after a catastrophic event, Read with Me sends groups of volunteers to the region along with book bags and book packages to read books with children, help them to talk and impress their feelings, and do different book-related activities. The long-term Read with Me plan includes sending appropriate books, setting up child-centered libraries, providing continuous and targeted training for local people in the cities and villages to read with children in crisis and, to monitor the implementation of the project.

Vast areas of Iran were affected by destructive floods in March and April 2019. Taking its former experiences with children in crisis into account, the Read with Me program has introduced two major phases for helping children and families struggling with flooding:

- Short-term: dispatching trained volunteers with Book Backpacks and Book Packages to flooded regions during the initial days and weeks of flooding.
- Long-term: with the financial support of IBBY Children in Crisis Fund, Read with Me has designed three long-term projects in flooded regions in west and south-west of Iran:

  * Implementation of the “Creative Education through Children’s Literature” learning literacy program in underserved kindergartens in cities and villages in Lorestan Province covering about 50 kindergarten teachers and principals and more than 1400 children aged between 3 and 6 years old.

  * Establishing a Read with Me child-centered library in Gourieh, Khuzestan Province and implementing the “Creative Education through Children’s Literature” learning literacy program for local volunteers. The project focused on training girls and women so they can promote reading among children and young adults in their villages.

  * Establishing a Read with Me child-centered school library in Poldokhtar, Lorestan Province and reading promotion in schools.

---

Kermanshah Province - After the earthquake

After the catastrophic earthquake in 2017 in Kermanshah, western Iran, Read with Me started its work from the very first days in the area to help children bear the burden of mental stress caused by the crisis.

Regarding the conditions in this region and the presence of local volunteers interested in reading-aloud, Read with Me has established several cabin libraries in different earthquake affected regions. These libraries serve as a child-centered library to provide services to local children and families in crisis. They also serve as a center of book distribution for schools and surrounding villages. Accordingly, the local teachers, promoters and volunteers, who have been trained in Read with Me workshops, take quality books to schools and child-related centers and share them with children in cities and villages in remote areas.

After the earthquake, ten cabin libraries were set up in different zones affected by earthquake, seven of them continue to serve at the moment.

Local people and children helped the Read with Me group step by step to equip and run these libraries.

2019 floods in West and South-west of Iran

Vast areas of Iran were affected by destructive floods in March and April 2019. Taking its former experiences with children in crisis into account, the Read with Me program has introduced two major phases for helping children and families struggling with flooding.

- Short-term: dispatching trained volunteers with Book Backpacks and Book Packages to flooded regions during the initial days and weeks of flooding.
- Long-term: with the financial support of IBBY Children in Crisis Fund, Read with Me has designed three long-term projects in flooded regions in west and south-west of Iran:

  * Implementation of the “Creative Education through Children’s Literature” learning literacy program in underserved kindergartens in cities and villages in Lorestan Province covering about 50 kindergarten teachers and principals and more than 1400 children aged between 3 and 6 years old.

  * Establishing a Read with Me child-centered library in Gourieh, Khuzestan Province and implementing the “Creative Education through Children’s Literature” learning literacy program for local volunteers. The project focused on training girls and women so they can promote reading among children and young adults in their villages.

  * Establishing a Read with Me child-centered school library in Poldokhtar, Lorestan Province and reading promotion in schools.
Since 2016 Read with Me has focused on expansion and enrichment of libraries in order to make quality books accessible to larger groups of children and young adults. The Read with Me libraries have great impact on the project’s sustainability and keep children and their families connected to books. You can read more about Read with Me libraries on our website.
Local libraries

Read with Me local libraries vary widely depending on conditions in every region. There are grand libraries with thousands of books, covering a vast area, and there are also libraries in a small room in a remote village covering about 30-40 children in the village. Being flexible, the Read with Me project tries to find a proper solution for each situation, whether it is in a factory, in a car, or in cabins after the earthquake.

Sazvar Sazeh Azarestan Company

Sazvar Sazeh Azarestan Company, located near Tehran joined the project to get its workers involved in reading books with their children, since 2014. Now a library for children and adolescents has been established in Sazvar Sazeh Azarestan Factory and workers can borrow books for their children based on their age-groups.

By the supports of the company’s CEO, the Read with Me holds different cultural events for the workers’ families to make them interested in books and reading.

Read with Me mobile library

The Read with Me mobile library started its work in the rural areas of Qorveh County, Kurdistan Province in January 2019. This Mobile Library, with more than 1000 quality books, provides scheduled service to schools of this area. More than 20 volunteers take books from this library to children in remote villages.
Schools libraries are the best chance to make books accessible to children and young adults. About 50% of Read with Me libraries are in schools and a very important criteria for local libraries is being close to schools in the neighborhood. Since a vast part of the Read with Me project is implemented in schools and in cooperation with the Education Office in each region, setting up school libraries assure that children can access quality books to gain knowledge and skills for literary and personal improvement.
Read with Me provides cloth Pocket libraries for every classroom covered by the project. Teachers hang the book display on the wall and put the reading aloud books inside them. Children can see and easily access the books inside these libraries.

By now thousands of classroom libraries have been set up all over the country.
Quality books and book-related activities are not enclosed inside a Read with Me Library. Schools, preschools, kindergartens, children hospitals or any other children-related center around the library, can register as a library member and borrow books from the library.

Read with Me librarians try to build a network of promoters around their library. Parents, teacher, caretakers are not only the members of the library, they learn how to read aloud and share books with children, they borrow books from the library and read them for children in every possible situation.

Special canvas book holders are designed by the Read with Me experts which is easily folded and carried like a bag. Each center can borrow up to 18 books in every visit to the library, take the books to its children, hang the canvas book holder on the wall which serves as a practical pocket library, hold reading aloud sessions and do book-related activities for different periods of time and return the bag to the library and return it with new books.
In some libraries in remote villages, librarians are young adult girls who do not have the chance to continue their studies after the elementary school. Being in the libraries keeps them connected to the world of books and knowledge and other children in their villages, also a great motivation for them to continue their studies in non-attending schools. They can totally change their destiny earning the self-confidence and other skills in these libraries.

A girl, deprived of high school education, is now a librarian in a Read with Me library. She reads aloud for younger children in the school library.
Reading with Babies and Toddlers

"Reading with Babies and Toddlers" is a project designed for babies 0-3 years old. Today, it is proven that reading affects children since their birth or even before. Hence, Read with Me has dedicated parts of its activities to inform and empower parents, especially in more deprived and poor families, to read and talk to children since the birth.

This program aims to train the mothers and volunteer caregivers to support the cognitive, language, and behavioral development of their babies through reading rhymes, verses, word games and colorful picture books for them every day. In this program, parent receive books proper for their child every three months.

Since June 2015, this project has been implemented in various centers including two nurseries and three other centers in marginal neighborhoods of Tehran and Isfahan.

You can read interviews with two mothers about the effects of "Reading with Babies and Toddlers" program on themselves and their babies, in links below:
• A mother describes how reading books has influenced her life and her children
• I had no idea how to communicate with the baby in the womb
Reading in Families

“Reading in Families” is a novel project that follows the same framework and guidelines of the “Read with Me” program. The project’s principal goal is to take book reading and literacy into the homes of educationally disadvantaged families and bring about a rich academic environment. Circumstances are designed where children from birth are exposed to learning activities and practicing literacy skills before entering primary school. Simultaneously, older children in the family will strengthen their reading competence. Family means all the family members are involved in the reading and learning activities – parents, siblings, and grandparents. This program is implemented in deprived regions; its primary purpose is to cater to families who cannot even buy books for their children and are also unaware of their influencing role in educating them.
The “One Promoter, One Book Package” campaign is a subset of the Read with Me program which is implemented with the help and support of “Read with Me Fan Club”. The purpose of this campaign is to ensure that a larger number of children, tutors, teachers and reading promoters all across Iran, have access to “Read with Me” services.

In March 2019, the “Read with Me” program started a campaign under the name of “One Teachers, One Class, One Library” with the goal of providing the teachers with books and wall-mounted cloth book holders. Other than providing the teachers with quality books and book holders, teachers attended different workshops and learned how to share books with children and different read aloud techniques.

As the campaign grew and more people started to join, it was decided to provide not only the teachers, but also promoters and children librarians who do not have access to quality books, with the services that the campaign offers. By changing the approach, many promoters and children librarians joined the campaign and attended the workshops. Therefore the campaign got itself a new name and it started to be called: “One Promoter, One Book Package”. In 2020, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the activities of this campaign were transformed. You can read a full report on the activities of this campaign in 2020 in this link.
3 Evaluation
The Read with Me team has monitored the project through especially designed questionnaires and continuous visits to regions covered by the program, aiming to assess the children's language, cognitive, personality and social developments. Since 2010, the overall assessment of the project reflects the following achievements:

- Children are made aware of the fascinating phenomena of books, reading, and the joy of reading in a group.
- The children, who were not interested in reading books, have become book lovers.
- Children are now eager to borrow books, take them home or read to their siblings and parents.
- Children’s concentration has improved; they have learned to listen to the stories from the beginning to the end.
- They can comprehend and relate to the stories, remember the highlights and describe the sequence of events afterwards.
- Their lexical acquisition and linguistic competence have been improved dramatically.
- Bilingual children who couldn't speak, write or read Persian before, by using “Creative Education through Literature Method”, now have made impressive progress in basic literacy and verbal skills.
Children suffering from Thalassemia in Sistan and Baluchestan Province are encouraged to read aloud to each other while receiving treatment in hospital regularly. Book related drama has improved self-expression, confidence, critical thinking and most importantly, reasoning and finding creative ways of solving problems.

The fine motor skills have developed, namely as a result of artistic activities where the children are engaged during reading sessions such as painting and book-making. The children’s communication skills, with other children and the teacher, are improved considerably.

By reading stories and discussing them, children have come to a better understanding of living values, friendship, peace, and environment.

The project has equally made an impact on teachers, librarians, and volunteers. The training workshops have motivated the teachers to learn more and improve their knowledge of books and literature as an effective tool to work with disadvantaged children.

Read with Me has trained teachers and promoters in most of the covered areas to become Read with Me ambassadors. These ambassadors can educate more and more people and promoters in their regions.
Since 2010, numerous school libraries have been set up, which help the sustainability of the project. Establishing child-centered local libraries near the schools is another action to expand the project, make it more sustainable, make children interested in book reading, and improve the literacy skills in students. The fact that these libraries remain active even after the project has ended in a certain areas, proves that the project has lasting impacts, not only in the field of books but also on cultural aspects of the society.

Read with Me has been well-known and acknowledged among groups and individuals interested in children’s education and reading promotion. Hence, there is now a network of promoters and volunteers trying to get involved with the program’s standards. The Read with Me program is also trying to expand this network by training these volunteers and supplying quality books for children, with whom they work.

Evaluating the results of Read with Me activities after crisis (especially in regions affected by floods or earthquakes) shows that the project has left permanent impacts on children improvement through crisis. These impacts are now visible in children’s skills and abilities.
Other Activities

- Jabbar Baghtcheban Award
- Quality Book Exhibitions in schools
- Read-Aloud Week in Iran
- During the Coronavirus Pandemic
On 9 May 2016, the 130th anniversary of Jabbar Baghtcheban’s birth, the founder of modern preschool education and also deaf education in Iran, the Institute for Research on the History of Children’s Literature decided to establish Jabbar Baghtcheban Award for Reading Promotion, to honor this prominent educator, promoter and children’s playwright.

The first Jabbar Baghtcheban prize was awarded in the first two-day Read with Me Conference on 10-11 November 2016 and ten distinguished and creative teachers who had outstanding achievements in reading promotion and made remarkable contribution to Read with Me project were praised in this ceremony. The second Jabbar Baghtcheban prize was awarded at the second Read with Me Conference on 15 November 2018 to thirteen selected teachers. The award consists of a Jabbar Baghtcheban statuette, a sum of money and a plaque. At the moment, these teachers are Read with Me ambassadors and play an important role in expanding the project in their own regions.

Omran Azarestan Construction Company financially supports this award.

In 2020, the Read with Me conference was not held due to the Coronavirus Pandemic Situations but the Jabbar Baghtcheban Award was announced as regular. On the following page, you can find links of youtube videos about the winners of 2020 Baghtcheban Award.
Jabbar Baghtcheban Award

Shokoufeh Amirian

Mahboubeh Ekhlasi

Mehdi Rigizadeh

Abdulghafoor Shahbakhsh

Halimeh Gorg

Jabbar Baghtcheban award: 2020 winners

You can also visit our youtube channel for more videos.

Fariba Dahmardeh

Mojdeh Palashi
The Institute holds book fairs and festivals at schools for parents and teachers to promote quality children’s books and get families acquainted with the importance of reading to children and its effects on children’s learning.

Parents, teachers and students attend these exhibitions and Read with Me experts are there to guide them to choose the right books and how to read-aloud and share quality books with children and do the follow-up book-related activities.
Since 2018, the Institute for Research on the History of Children’s Literature has named 22nd to 28th of January, as “Read-Aloud Week” in Iran. The main reason behind naming a week as “Read-Aloud Week”, is to emphasize on the importance of reading-aloud, as the best way to improve reading skills and dialogic communication.

Each year the Read with Me program chooses an inspiring motto for this week and invites parents, teachers, librarians and anyone who have an interest in working in fields related to children, to read aloud to children and young adults during this week and post their experience on Social Medias.

The recall is well received by children, teachers, tutors, parents, librarians and many others interested in children’s literature and numerous libraries, schools, kindergartens and other child-related centers join this campaign and send thousands of pictures and films on Social Medias, every year.

Read with Me hopes that, the Read-Aloud week advances to become a national event related to books and reading promotion.

Here, you can read the weeks announcement for 2021.
Since late February 2020, as the Coronavirus Pandemic was getting worse, kindergartens and schools all over Iran were closed. Due to this happening, children and teachers in the schools covered by the Read with Me project, lost their direct contact and the read-aloud sessions had to come to an end; also those classes working on literacy improvement through literature had to put those activities to rest for a while. On the other hand, Read with Me libraries and children supporting centers were also closed. In long term, this incident can have extreme effects on children’s mental health and development.

The problem is milder in privileged families who can support quality time and education for their children at home, but children covered by Read with Me, are mostly children in deprived regions of the country, and are seriously vulnerable to such situations due to lack of literate parents or siblings at home who can provide a supportive environment for them during this time.

So since the very first moments, the Read with Me experts tried to find ways to reconnect to children during this harsh time so they can reduce the trauma caused by the situation. The most important activities were via the social media, focusing on mothers, helping them to work with their children at home.

In this link, you can find a short report of these activities.
5 International Recognition & Awards
In November 2014, as part of the celebration of the “Iranian Book Week”, the Institute for Research on the History of Children’s Literature in Iran, was awarded the “Great Achievement Prize” for Read with Me Project.

In 2016, Read with Me from Iran and Big Brother Mouse from Luang Prabang City, Laos were the two winning projects of IBBY-Asahi Reading Promotion Award among 11 nominees.

Read with Me program has been nominated for the Astrid Lindgren Memorial Award (ALMA) four years in a row. The first nomination was in 2017 followed by being nominated for the next three year as well.
The IBBY-iRead Outstanding Reading Promoter Award has been established by the Shenzhen iRead Foundation and IBBY to encourage a real commitment to the cause of reading promotion in the hope of spreading this dedication to others around the globe. Part of the award goes to the selected promoter or individual, and part of it goes to an organization that the winners announce. Marit Törnqvist, one of the 2020 iRead winners, selected the Read with Me program which led to iRead interview with Zohreh Ghaeni, founder of Read with Me. You can read the full interview on this link.
International Artists, intellectuals and academicians who support Read with Me project

Sylvia M. Vardell
Children's Literature Professor

Miriam Martinez
Literacy & Children's Literature Professor

Astrid Lindgren's Family
Swedish Writer

Peter Sis
Czech writer & illustrator

Jutta Bauer
German Illustrator

Edward van de Vendel
Dutch Writer

Marit Törnvist
Swedish-Dutch writer & Illustrator

MohammadHadi Mohammadi
Iranian Author & Scholar

William Herbert Teale
Literacy Theorist

Katherine Paterson
American Writer

Patricia Aldana
Former IBBY President

Bob Graham
Australian author & illustrator

Soraya Ghezel Ayagh
Children's Literature Professor

Farhad Hasanazadeh
Iranian Author

Houshang Moradi Kermani
Iranian writer

Junko Yokota
Language & Reading Professor

Jeff Aerts
Belgian Author

Toon Tellegen
Dutch writer & poet
Some well-known illustrators and writers have donated the copyright of their books to the Institute for Research on the History of Children’s Literature in Iran and the Read with Me project:

- Emma, 2013, donated by the German writer and illustrator: Jutta Bauer (Hans Christian Andersen winner)

- Red Bird, 2014, donated by the Astrid Lindgren’s family and the illustrator, Marit Törnqvist (Hans Christian Andersen nominee)

- Bigger than a Dream, 2016, donated by the Belgian writer, Jef Aerts and illustrator, Marit Törnqvist

- The Conference of the Birds, 2016, donated by Czech writer and illustrator: Peter Sís (Hans Christian Andersen winner)

- Pikkuhenki, 2018, donated by Dutch writer Toon Tellegen (Hans Christian Andersen Award nominee) and the illustrator, Marit Törnqvist

- A Happy Island, 2019, donated by writer and illustrator, Marit Törnqvist.
In 2012, the proposal of Read with Me in South Khorasan to the IBBY Sharjah Fund (for children in crisis) was granted to cover 800 preschool children in remote areas and villages of South Khorasan near the Afghanistan border.

The Nederlands Letterenfonds ("Dutch Foundation for Literature") has supported Read with Me since 2016.

In 2019, after devastating floods in Iran, the Read with Me project was implemented in West and South-West of Iran for about 2500 children and 120 teachers and volunteers. (Here you can read this project’s report in April 2020)
When two worlds meet

Marit Törnqvist the prominent Swedish-Dutch author and illustrator is an international supporter of Read with Me. She has been invited to Iran twice by the Institute for Research on the History of Children’s Literature and the Read with Me project. She has collaborated continuously with the Read with Me in the past several years in various fields. We are honored to have this great artist and promoter as a member of the Read with Me family.

Here you can find reports of Marit Törnqvist’s collaboration with the Read with Me Project.

Two adolescents look at the book “Bigger than a dream” after Marit Törnqvist’s workshop in earthquake-affected region of Rijab, Kermanshah
Contact Us
For more information about the Read with Me project, its activities and achievements in every center or region you can visit our website (www.khanak.org/en).

Pictures, videos, reports and news of the Read with Me activities in different fields and different regions are available on the website. You can follow our videos on Read with Me YouTube channel.
You can see the following short documentaries about the Read with Me project implementation in different centers:

The sound of reading comes from brick kilns
Children in MahmoudAbad, a village near Tehran where many seasonal workers live and work in brick kilns, benefit quality education and quality books in the "Supportive Education Center of MahmoudAbad".

I'm not afraid of anything here!
The film tells about the Read with Me activities in the earthquake-affected areas of Kermanshah and how children find hope in Read with Me cabin-libraries.

Read the Joy with Me!
Read with Me has been implemented in some Nomadic Schools of Zahedan since 2015. The project has improved basic literacy in children and has brought joy and happiness into their lives.

Steel, Read with Me
A short film about the Read with Me project implementation in SazavarSazeh Factory and how the workers and their children benefit the library in the factory.
7

Photo Gallery
Schools in Deprived Areas

Photo Gallery
Pre-school and school teachers, and reading promoters, attend workshops about Children's Literature, Quality Books and how to share books with children and young adults.
By attending Read with Me workshops, teachers learn to make simple puppets of book characters by recycled material.
South Khorasan teachers at a training workshop performing Michael Rosen’s “We are going on a bear hunt”.
The Shepherd is astonished by the book read by the village teacher
Children and their mother cooperate in making the puppets for book-related activities.
A "Read with Me" teacher reads aloud Max Velthuijs's "Frog and the Treasure", in a village in Bonjar, Sistan and Balouchestan with paper puppets.
A teacher in Zabol, Sistan and Baluchestan is reading aloud Pat Hutchins's "Rosie's Walk" for children.
Children in Chabahar, a port on the coast of the Gulf of Oman, are listening to Astrid Lindgren's "The Red Bird"
In a nomadic school in Zahedan, children are learning Alphabet and phonetics with rhythm, songs, and stories in the basic literacy improvement program.
Dark classrooms with no facilities can change to an exciting adventurous place by book reading. Children are reacting to "Where the Wild Things Are" in a deprived village in ZarAbad, Sistan and Baluchestan.
Children in a school in Rask, Sistan and Baluchestan are listening enthusiastically to a story from the "Learning Alphabet" Book.
A teacher in Sistan and Baluchestan has performed different Read with Me activities, role-playing, literacy activities and he has brought color and happiness to his class.
A young preschool teacher in a village in Jiroft reads aloud to improve basic literacy in her class.
Read with Me has made the literacy learning enjoyable by stories, games and role-playing.
The Lorestan nomadic children are acting out a story
A creative teacher in South Khorasan has taken children out, to the nature to read aloud a book, dealing with environmental theme.
A group of preschool children in South Khorasan is making David McKee’s “Elmer the Patchwork Elephant”!
Role-playing related to reading aloud and learning sounds and phonemes in a village in South Khorasan
After reading Bob Graham’s “How to Heal a Broken Wing”, the preschoolers in a village in South Khorasan were encouraged to heal the wings of their hand-made crafted birds.
After reading “Red Short-legged Hen”, a group of preschool children in a village in South Khorasan is performing a puppet theater.
A group of preschool children in a village of South Khorasan fascinated by the book read to them by their teacher.
The illustrations of the book “How to Heal a Broken Wing” have captivated the children’s attention. Books with the themes of peace and hope can heal children traumatized by war and violence.
Children in Crisis

Photo Gallery
Emotional needs of sick children have been considered during book reading. Reading aloud books to children suffering from cancer, Taskin Center, Tabriz.
A volunteer is reading at a hospital located in Sistan and Baluchestan province, one of the most deprived areas in Iran.
These children have shown unbelievable signs of change in their character and behavior during a very short time. They improve day by day not only in literacy but also in learning living skills.
A small library in an impoverished neighborhood in Tehran, where Read Aloud sessions are held every day for children.
Read with Me group paints the outside wall of a cabin in the middle of the ruins after the earthquake in Kermanshah, with pictures from the books.
Volunteers, librarians and reading promoters take Read with Me book bags to remote villages after the earthquake (2017, Kermanshah) to share books with children in the area.
A local volunteer reads aloud for children after the earthquake in a shelter (Kermanshah, 2017)
The libraries have become a safe haven for children among so many tents in the earthquake-affected areas to read books, perform a play, talk with each other and with the librarian and organize their distressed minds.
Children and adolescents in the "Red Bird" workshop held by Marit Törnqvist in Rijab
Children and adolescents participate in arranging the books in a library in the earthquake-affected region of Rijab
Books and the library are children's friends and haven in the hard days after the Kermanshah earthquake.
A Read with Me promoter reads aloud with children of nomads in the mountains of Kermanshah.
Teachers and volunteers set up a small library in village affected by floods in the south-east of Iran, in February 2020.
Children have made their own little birds after reading the book “How To Heal A Broken Wing” by Bob Graham.
After the earthquake in Azerbaijan, the teachers were trained to perform Puppet Theater after reading sessions.
Teachers and tutors from this center, who are trained in the framework of Read with Me, go to brick kilns with book bags to read books for the children of seasonal workers who spend their days in these kilns' area with no entertainment.
Children in Supportive Education Center of Mahmoudabad are making "Papier Mache" puppets based on characters of the book "The lyrics of Gypsy's Tar".
Young adults in Shoush Center (south of Tehran) are acting out a story.
Teachers encourage discussion and exchange of views on the story.
Read with Me Libraries

Photo Gallery
Child-centered Library in Koosha Kids House is a place for education, reading and playing for street/working children in the neighborhood.
Children's level of interest is considered in every aspect of a Read with Me library.
Sadr-ol-Vaezin Library, in Khonsar (Isfahan province) is an example of a Read with Me child-centered library.
A Read with Me chain library in a village in Sistan and Baluchestan which constantly welcomes children to read and play
In a tropical village in south-East of Iran, children get together after the sunset in the village library. In some of these villages, Read with Me libraries are the only place where children can spend their leisure time.
Children’s levels of interest are considered in a Child-centered Library, in book selection, in its environment and in the activities done at the library. In a child-centered library in Chabahar children are listening enthusiastically to their teacher’s reading-aloud.
A child-centered Library is not only a book storehouse. Children read, talk and do book-related activities in this library.
Children of different ages can easily access books.
Reading Aloud room for children under seven, Salakh, Qeshm is designed by characters from the book "What & What & What, An Infant"
Child-centered library in Salakh village, Qeshm Island
Children participated actively in the library's renovation and reopening
Children in Salakh Village, Qeshm, helping the Read with Me group in equipping their village library.
Children react to David McKee’s “Elmer Again”. The students of nearby schools visit the Sadr-ol-vaezin Library regularly where they can enjoy a rich literature and literacy environment.
Local women help in sewing curtains for their village library in Sistan and Baluchestan.
Sazvar Sazeh Azarestan library, equipped with more than 4000 quality books, serves to workers' families.

Fathers who work in the company borrow books from the library for their children.
Reading with Babies and Toddlers

Photo Gallery
A mother with her children in “Reading with Babies and Toddlers workshop”, MahmoudAbad, Shahre Rey
In mother and babies sessions, mothers get to know the practical concepts of emergent literacy and the importance of reading books with their children.
Mothers attend workshops to learn how to speak and read to their babies.
An exhibition of the handmade books and toys by mothers.